CLARKSON COST SENATORS GAME

Triple Drove in the Winning Run.

ROUTED CLARK GRIFFITH

Good Only Two Innings, But Stayed Five—Cassidy's Work Phenomenal. Hughes Was Hit Hard.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Walter Clarkson, the ex-Harvard pitcher, saved the Greater New Yorks from defeat in the game with the Washingtons today at American League Park.

His pitching was not only effective, but he sent in the winning run by a tremendous three-base hit. It was his seventh victory since joining the professional ranks, but his greatest triumph was that of today. He was called upon to succeed the old warhorse Griffith in the sixth inning, and from his first pitch of the ball until the finish he had the Washingtons at his mercy.

It was a surprising turn of affairs, for the visitors had batted Griffith heavily, and of the five runs had earned four. The game was splendidly contested, brilliant plays being numerous. Cassidy's display at shortstop was in some instances of the phenomenal order, while Gansel's first base playing has rarely been excelled. In the fourth inning Elberfeld made a wonderful catch of Huesman's hit, the ball getting deep into left field and Elberfeld securing it while running in the same direction.

Exit Griffith.

For two innings Griffith gave every evidence that he held the visitors within his grasp, but in the third they began to bat freely, scoring one earned run on three singles. It was in the fourth inning, however, that his delivery was punished the hardest, two singles, a three-bagger, and two earned runs being made. In the fifth inning a base on balls, a force hit, and Stahl's hit to the extreme center field for a home run scored two more runs, and this ended Griffith's appearance in the box.

Fultz started off in the second inning with a safe hit, and after being caught off base reached second safely by a bad throw of Stahl. After Williams had retired on a fly Gansel hit safely to left field and Fultz scored. The local outfielder scored in the fifth by a four-run play, three of which were earned. Eight men went to the bat and left safely, Fultz producing a three-run play, three of which were earned. Three bases and scoring two runs.

Williams was then supplanted by Hughes. The New Yorks gave Gansel his base on balls, but the latter was forced out by Stahl. McGuire was put out at first, and Clarkson hit to right field for three runs and Conroy tallied.

DONAHUE POUNDED BY DETROIT TEAM

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 17.—In the first game of today's double-header Detroit pounded Donahue all over the lot during the first four innings. Stoval's finger was smashed by a pitched ball in the fifth inning, putting him out of the game for a week or more. The second game was called to a halt because of a catch a train for St. Louis. The suspensions of Crawford and Donovan were lifted by Base-Off Griffin this morning on account of the crippled condition of the Tigers. Scores:

CHAMPIONS LOST OUT BY CLOSE DECISIONS

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The Athletics defeated the champions this afternoon in one of the closest games of the season. Gibson pitched well but received poor support, and Umpire Sheridan's decisions, all of them close, were against the locals. Conkley was wild and nearly lost the game in the fourth when he forced in a run by giving three passes after Ferris had doubled. Score:

Georgetown Prospects On Football Gridiron

Abundance of Heavy Men on and Behind the Line—Too Much Material—Nobody Is Sure of a Place.

The Georgetown football team will make its initial appearance of the season next Saturday afternoon, against the Maryland Agricultural College eleven at Georgetown Field.

The Blue and Gray squad had its first practice on Thursday, when twelve men reported to school. The candidates thoroughly in the rudiments of the game before any attempt is made at team work. In order to show the men the system which will be used during the coming two months, Dr. Felly had a ten-minute scrimmage. No hard work was attempted, but each man was shown how he should play his position both on the offense and on the defense.

Outlook Encouraging.
The general outlook for a successful campaign seems most encouraging. Eight of last fall's eleven, which did so well in the early part of the season by holding down Princeton to five points and defeating the strong teams of the Naval Academy and North Carolina, will be available, while the number of large men among the freshman class augers well for the future.

Reddy, one of the most spectacular halfbacks who ever carried a pigskin in the South, graduated last June, while Rorke, the right guard, has had his four years in intercollegiate athletics, having played two seasons at Boston College previous to his two years under the Harvard banner. Rorke is a big tackle, had trouble over his studies, and withdrew from the college to go to Denison, where he did wonderful work on the football team. There is considerable uncertainty over the return of McGettigan, the quarterback. His father died last month, and the son may be detained in Philadelphia to attend to the family's business interests.

Four Gaps for New Men.

This will leave four gaps in the team which must be filled from among the new men, and the members of last fall's squad who have returned. Captain McGettigan is the only member of the whole squad who is at all sure of his position. Last season after the fine showing against the Tigers, the team for the team ceased, and some of the regulars reported with such irregularity and neglected training to such an extent that the team ceased to be a team. The Washington players when the same form displayed again would have meant an even chance for victory.

For the center of the line there is a trio of exceptionally big men, and the fight for snapper back promises to be one of the hardest of the whole season. Given the All-Southern center, who weighs 225, will try for the pivotal position for the fourth time, and opposed to him will be McGuire, 220, who filled the place acceptably the latter part of last fall when Given was compelled to withdraw because of his father's death, and Paschal, the biggest man in the whole assortment, who has lost fifteen pounds, but who still weighs 250, will also make a bid for center.

Heavy Line Men.

For left guard and the two tackles all the big men who are not out for center will try. Carroll, the 193 left tackle, who was the best ground gainer among the forwards, is again a candidate, weighing ten pounds more than he did last fall. Neil, who formerly played in the Winchester Academy line, but who has not had on the mole skin for two years, stands six feet two and weighs 200. He is very quick for a big man, but his great handicap will be lack of experience. O'Connell, a brother of a former Georgetown player, enters from the Cornish High School, where he played guard and center, and captured the eleven. He is the third heaviest on the squad, but he carries his 230 pounds very well. Shanley, the varsity tackle, and Morahan, who substituted last fall, will both try for the line. Kernan, the right end, has entered his father's office in Utica, so some one will have to be found to take his place, but McCarthy, because of his good work last season, will be the favorite for left end. There will be an unusually large number of men trying for the ends, including Preston Edmonston, the 192 end, and Brennan and Cockrell, members of last year's scrub.

Hart Looks Good.

Hub Hart seems to be virtually sure of holding his old place at right half, while Martell and Graham will both try for fullback.

Daugherty, a freshman from the Minneapolis High School, seems to be especially fast for a first year man, and will try for left half, together with Bocoek, the third best of last season's backs. Should McGettigan be unable to return to the team, he will probably find berth at quarterback, where he played throughout the season of 1902.

The Schedule.

The schedule as announced by Manager Carlin follows:
Sept. 24—Maryland Agricultural College at Georgetown.
Oct. 1—Princeton at Princeton.

KILLED MAN IN MISTAKE FOR SISTER'S ASSAILANT

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 17.—J. C. Nelson, a piano salesman, was brutally murdered at Okaloosa Thursday night by Jimmie Siebert, a boy of seventeen. Siebert erroneously supposed Nelson to be J. M. Carpenter, who had been convicted of a criminal assault on Siebert's sister.

Nelson had encountered Carpenter, who is out on bail pending an appeal, and asked to be driven to the Siebert place. As he alighted Mrs. Siebert caught sight of Carpenter.

She shouted to her husband that Carpenter was at the gate. Siebert shot at Carpenter, who whipped up his horses and drove away.

Nelson died in an opposite direction. Seeing this, young Siebert jumped on a horse, seized a shotgun, and pursued him at top speed, unmindful of the cries of his mother and father that he was after the wrong man.

After a chase of half a mile he killed Nelson, and was horror-struck to learn his mistake. Siebert is under arrest.

Virginia Encouraged By Strong Candidates

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, Sept. 17.—Virginia football candidates reported for practice this morning and were kept at work in passing and punting for an hour. This afternoon the practice was resumed from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Coach G. F. Sanford, of Yale, who coached Columbia last season, has charge of the gridiron athletes and kept them plugging away as hard as if they were in mid-season form. While the material now on the coach's list is not by any means all that he will have to select from, it is such as to justify the forecast that Virginia this year will have the heaviest and brainiest eleven put on a field by the Southern champions. Sanford says he will win every game this season, the one in Norfolk against the Carlisle Indians, and that in Richmond against North Carolina being the most important.

Heavy and Fast.

Virginia will have a very heavy line and a fast and heavy back field. There is little doubt but that she will have a good punter, although none is in sight at present. Of the last season's crack team Captain Council and Branch Johnson will again be at tackles, positions which last year won for them the same places on the all-Southern eleven. Elmer and Spates are expected to return and compete for the guard positions, but they will have considerable opposition. Just who will oppose them is not known at present, the athletic authorities declining today to give the names at this time. Neumez, of Georgia, is thought to be one, and Johnson, of the Virginia Military Institute, a second.

The old men, however, are such speedy, heady players that they will probably hold their jobs against all comers.

The center position is yet a problem. "Bull" Conner, last year's middle man, will not return, and his 220 pounds of bone and brawn, and his gray matter of unknown weight, will be sadly missed unless a dark horse arrives soon. Conner was unusually active for a big man, and played havoc with the opposition line. He was also excellent in offensive work.

The end positions are also in doubt. It is too early, according to Virginia's system, to tell who the applicants for these positions will be, for the men have generally not made any special application as yet. It is believed, however, that excellent ends will be on hand. Coach Sanford thinks the line will average 350 pounds and will be speedy and brainy.

Many Backs.

A whole raft of applicants will have to be thrashed out for the back field. Fast, heavy men and good blockers will have the call. Pollard, who is playing his fourth year at quarterback, is in college again, and will undoubtedly hold fast this season.

Head, Randolph, and Watkins, last year's
